Monday afternoon, a 13year old Duxbury boy was hit by a car as he crossed Saint George Street in front of the high school complex. The boy was transported to South Shore Hospital with non-life threatening injuries, according to Duxbury police.

“He was not seriously injured,” said Duxbury Police Lieutenant Lewis Chubb.

A sport utility vehicle collided with the boy at approximately 4 p.m. and police and fire fighters responded immediately. There was also a news helicopter circling the area early that evening. Police are investigating the incident.
